Architecture as Art Photography Competition

The winners of the first Architecture as Art photography competition have been announced.

The competition was open to all qualified and Part II architects working in the UK. Divided into two categories, Architecture and Place and Architecture and People, the entrants were encouraged to submit images of their own personal favourite buildings, large or small, iconic or infamous.

On the judging panel, which was chaired by Jack Pringle, were:

Andrew Scoones, Manager, The Building Centre Trust

Grant Smith, Photographer

Mark Alderson, Executive Editor, Weekend FT

Nick Scott FRPS, Chair of Applied and Professional Panel, Royal Photographic Society

From the 250 images submitted across the two categories, the judges short-listed 10 in each category, finally narrowing these down to 2 winners and 3 Highly Commended.
